STORY

I left very disappointed from my previous trip in Uganda. From proud hunters, they became drunk beggars, attraction for tourists.

Strange feeling haunted me for very long time.

I decided to go to Central African Republic to find maybe the last tribe of nature living Pygmies.

The Synopsis

Pygmies. Average height of adult is 150cm. They have been haunted and eaten like an animals. There are no many tribes left on this planet.

Thirty years I've been dreaming about seeing pygmies. On the borders of Uganda and Kongo, I found them. From proud hunters they became drunk beggars, attraction for tourists. I left very disappointed.

Few years later I decided with friend to visit Central African Republic, to find maybe last tribe of nature living pygmies. After wading through swamps, fighting with dense jungle and illegally crossing the borders with Kongo, we found them.

We found maybe the last tribe of nature living pygmies

They are living like their ancestor have been living centuries ago. Half naked pygmies are all around us. They live just for the moment. Their joy from music and dance is endless.

They are so small, but they are the biggest rulers of green darkness spreading over the equator.

END OF STORY

"Now I'm for a few days at home and enjoying the pleasures of everyday life. I can drink water from the tap, switch on the light whenever I want, open the fridge and eat..."

But i would change all of this for one more day with Pygmies.

It's something magical going on over there.

It's something you can't buy, it's something, you have to live."
